

Transforming Community Health through Education

Attention medical providers, the time to give back is now...become an AHEC preceptor

Programs & Services offered to health professionals

- Continuing education opportunities
- University faculty appointments
- Community engagement activities
- Community based trainings of health professional students (MD's, PA's, NP's)
 - Rotation types - women's health, adult medicine, family medicine, pediatrics and more

“The continuing education program made it financially feasible for me to attend more educational conferences.”

*Anonymous
AHEC Clinical Preceptor*

Capital City Area Health Education Center
1224 M Street NW, Suite 201
Washington, D.C 20005

Clinical Partners

Bread for the City
Capital Health Management Services
Carl Vogel Center
Community of Hope
Columbia Road Health Services
Family Medical Counseling Services, Inc.
Family Health and Birth Center
La Clinica del Pueblo
Mary's Center
So Others May Eat (SOME)
Spanish Catholic Center
Unity Health Care, Inc.
Whitman Walker

Academic Partners

Catholic University of America
George Washington University
Georgetown University
Howard University
Trinity University

What is an AHEC preceptor?

An AHEC preceptor is a health professional, who in conjunction with an AHEC program, serves as a clinical faculty member for one or more health professions academic programs. By training students at community-based rural and underserved urban areas, AHECs seek to expose these students to the needs, challenges and practice opportunities that exist in medically underserved areas.

For more information email the CC AHEC staff at info@ccahec-dc.org or check us out on the web at www.ccahec-dc.org